

CONFIDENTIALITY AGREEMENT

Wisdom Life Coaching

1. I understand that if I would like Cory Willson to talk or share information about our sessions together with anyone else, I will need to complete a Release of Information form. Initial _____
2. I understand that Cory Willson respects and upholds confidentiality values and laws. She will only release information about our work with my written permission, court order or legal subpoena. In addition, there are some situations in which she is legally obligated to breach my confidentiality and contact local law enforcement and/or social services authorities in order to protect me or others from harm. The situations include: 1. child or elderly neglect or abuse. 2. Self-harm or suicidal actions. 3. Harm to others. These situations rarely occur, and Cory Willson would make every effort to discuss the breach of confidentiality with you before taking action. Initial _____
3. Confidentiality online: It is never possible to guarantee 100% protection of confidentiality of either email transmissions or phone calls. Cory Willson will do everything possible to protect against any intrusions, and recommends the use of a personally owned computer to protect you. In addition, the use of cordless or cell phones make it possible for others with a scanner to hear our conversations. To summarize, there is a small risk to your confidentiality via phone/email contact, but the risk is minimized assuming common sense is practiced. Initial _____

I, as the client, _____, attest that I have read, understand, and initialed the items on this list myself. Any questions I have pertaining to confidentiality have been answered by Cory Willson before signing this form. I understand my role as a client and Cory's role as a Life Coach.
